Ft Lauderdale Fishing

South Florida is well known for its year round fisheries. Off the coast of Fort Lauderdale, we are very fortunate to have the northbound flowing gulfstream current so close to our shoreline. This current of deep blue water brings to us it's rich bounty of sea life that feeds and supports our local fishing. Our coastline also features an offshore coral reef along with some strategically placed artificial reefs (wrecks), that provides the bottom structure necessary to hold many different species of gamefish.

This beautiful Sailfish caught by Don Sabo of Bethlehem, PA put up one of the toughest fights I've seen in quite some time. His fish ate a live bait fished from a kite just outside the Fort Lauderdale sea buoy.

Courtland Foos caught this beautiful 42 lb. Wahoo trolling a current edge offshore Ft Lauderdale. A short time later his wife landed a second Wahoo on the same edge.
